

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A dolly device for loading and unloading a container which comprises a control frame that pivots among a plurality of operational positions such that the control frame facilitates the loading or unloading of the container and supports the 5 container while being transported from location to location.

843391